

Article reduced to less than 10%

Quashing victory for Robson

SIMON BAIN

1,199 words

29 November 2004

The Herald

© 2004, Newsquest Media Group

...Court of Session quashed a decision by... Scottish Solicitors Disciplinary Tribunal to strike off Robson a principled solicitor who challenged the legal establishment and took on a slate of victims of legal injustice...

...opinion... that tribunal's sentence was "excessive", will be noted by those observers of the profession who claim that solicitors seen as "troublesome" by the Law Society of Scotland are unlikely to prosper.

Robson quickly became a "last resort" for clients whose complaints against solicitors had been turned away by other practices, and rejected by... Law Society of Scotland.

...had been a solicitor for 25 years with an exemplary record when he was reported...by Law Society of Scotland to...Disciplinary Tribunal for failing to answer letters.