Dear Noelle

Steel Services Limited -v- Yourself

Further to the above I enclose a copy of my attendance note of today's telephone conversations.

A copy of the fax sent to the LVT from MRJ is also enclosed. I have yet to receive MRJ's letter giving us, in effect, an ultimatum, although I expect to receive that today also.

!!! = Bullying
r.e .

I have spoken to Counsel who confirms that his opinion should be with us by lunchtime tomorrow. ON the basis of the urgency (him having received it this afternoon) his fees will be in the region of £50 plus VAT. Whilst on the issue of costs, this matter was billed on 1 September 2003 but you will appreciate that there has been substantial work done since that time and the current unbilled work in progress is £1,940 as against the sum of £2,778 on our client account. I will separately render you a bill which you will receive shortly.

urgency

As soon as the letter from MRJ is received and obviously as soon as Counsel's written advice is received, I will contact you.

Yours sincerely
LISA MCLEAN
